ANOTHER BAD break in the levee at Atchafalaya makes 100,000 homeless and causes floods in the remaining part of the "sugar bowl."

The total number driven from their homes and requiring food at public expense now is 600,000.

THIS MISSISSIPPI flood is too big an affair for private enterprise or private charity. It is the government's business to take care of it, and the government's business to see that it does not happen AGAIN.

FORMER GOVERNOR PINCHOT declares the Mississippi can be controlled and made to pay for the cost of the control. Reservoirs built on tributaries to the Mississippi could regulate the flow of water, and produce electric power sufficient to pay the entire cost.

Governor Pinchot, an earnest, useful and well-informed citizen, remarks that you cannot deal successfully with floods on the Mississippi merely by trying to control them when they happen. What is needed is "to prevent their happening."

A REPORT from the Azores last night said that De Pinedo's plane was down, and in tow of a sailboat, 240 miles west of Fayal. A gunboat has been sent to meet it.

De Pinero, in his recent flights, has included Asia, Africa, Europe, North and South America, and has had one plane burned. His flying record stands by itself, and he can afford one slight setback. The world will rejoice in his safety.

State Detectives Frank Clemmey and local police went to a Rhode Island city to make the arrest.

Clemmey admitted the police were after a third party to the crime.

Meanwhile, Antone da Silva and Mrs. G. Gibbons, who lived together as man and wife for four months after Gibbons was discarded as the woman's husband, remain silent. They both maintain their denials of any connection with Gibbons' death.

He was found in the bottom of a well on a deserted farm in South Swansea.

While several officers went into [illegible] to question [illegible] Edmund Gibbons, son of the woman charged with murder. They also questioned her mother, Mrs. Mary Flatley.

District Attorney William Connley today expressed the belief the crime might have been committed in the Laurel street house, where Mrs. Gibbons was living with Da Silva and her boy. Police believe the father probably went there in an attempt to take the boy out of the place.

4 FIRE CAPTAINS OUT, 6 LIEUTENANTS GO UP

The biggest upheaval in years in the Boston Fire Department occurred today when four captains were retired, six lieutenants were made captains and six privates were made lieutenants.

This shake-up, long ago vaguely predicted by Fire Commissioner Hultman and now made by him with the approval of Mayor Nichols, will necessitate the transfer of a large number of men.

The four captains have passed the age limit and they are on half-pay. They are Captain George A. Carney, engine 14, home, Elmwood street, Roxbury; Captain Walter S. Eaton, engine 31, home, Broadway, South Boston; Captain Thomas J. Lannary, engine 40, home, Tyndale street, Roslindale; Captain Edwin F. Richardson, engine 32, home, D street, South Boston.

KELLY FOUND GUILTY IN 'DOT' MACKAYE CASE

Los Angeles, May 25 (A.P.).—Paul Kelly was convicted of manslaughter today for the killing of Ray Raymond, husband of Dorothy MacKaye, Kelly's actress friend, in a fist attack in Raymond's Hollywood home. The conviction carries a penalty of one to ten years.

Judge Charles Burnell set Tuesday, May 31, as the date for imposing Kelly's sentence.

The convicted man's counsel gave notice that a written motion for a new trial would be made. The motion will come up on the day of sentencing.

Kelly took the verdict outwardly little moved, but with a blanched face.

The verdict was arrived at in about eight hours of deliberation by the jury.

BISHOP BRANDS DRY ACT 'MISTAKE AND FAILURE'

Watertown, N. Y., May 25 (A. P.)—"The 18th amendment was a mistake and the Volstead act is a failure. The effort of enforcing it is a farce and the whole present condition is a tragedy," said Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Central New York, today, in a statement regarding the stand taken by the Temperance Society of the Protestant Episcopal church. The society had declared itself in favor of temperance and against prohibition.

New York, May 25 (A.P.—Resolutions criticising prohibition adopted by the board of directors of the Church Temperance Society, a Protestant Episcopal organization, were published today by a vote of the board.

The resolutions announced a nation-wide campaign for "speedy action of moderate regulatory measures."

The society announced the resolutions were unanimously adopted at a meeting of the board, attended by two-thirds of its membership. Thirty-six of the board members are Episcopal clergymen and three Episcopal laymen.

The announcement said the society had remained inactive more than a year to permit a test of the prohibition laws, but that the "time

HOW WORLD HONORS "LITTLE TEACHER"
Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the "Wisdom a-Wing," is shown here with roses presented to her by 350 pupils in the class she teaches at Cass Technical High School, Detroit. Beside her is Mayor John C. Lodge of Detroit, a grand-uncle of "Lindy."

'I Am Lindbergh,' His First Words in Paris

Paris, May 25 (A.P.).—What were Lindbergh's first words on landing at Le Bourget is a question being animatedly discussed in Paris. According to some, he said: "Here I am. I have done it," while others insist he said: "Is this Paris?" But an eye-witness declares he simply remarked: "I am Charles Lindbergh," and this is confirmed by the flier himself.

Stephane Lauzanne, managing editor of the Matin, wanted to clear up the matter, so he asked the aviator personally:

"Is it true that you said, 'I am Charles Lindbergh'?"

"Yes, that's what I said," was the answer.

"But why?" the editor asked.

"I was afraid they might think I was somebody else," Lindbergh replied.

"All the same," M. Lauzanne observes, "there were not so many people expected at Le Bourget from across the Atlantic, but Lindbergh is an unaffected simple hero."

STOCK CROOK FLAYED AND GIVEN 16 YEARS

"You are a bird of passage, swindling widows of lifetime savings and the best place for you is State's Prison, where the only persons you can sell your watered stock to will be the warden and the keeper."

With these words Judge David F. Dillon, in Middlesex County Superior Court today, sentenced Gerrish L. Hutchinson, 46, stock broker, who has operated throughout New England, to serve from 15 to 18 years at hard labor.

The Judge then added an extra year in House of Correction on a conspiracy charge.

Hutchinson was charged with larceny of thousands of dollars from widows by exchanging bad stock for good.

His partner, Robert T. Charlton, has not been arrested.

FRENCH DEPUTIES LEAP OVER CHAIRS IN GREAT OVATION TO LINDBERGH

Paris, May 25 (I.N.S.).—The French Chamber of Deputies today resounded with strange sounds, as the dignified president of the chamber led members in giving a series of rousing "Hip, hip, hoorays," instead of the usual "vives."

The celebration was in honor of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, who stands out today the world's most famous aviator, because of his New York-to-Paris flight.

Lindbergh stood in confusion while the dignified French deputies became decidedly undignified in their acclaim, and he was openly aghast when Ambassador Myron T. Herrick introduced him as "a real Ambassador from the United States—this boy."

The scene in the chamber was one of the most moving since the days of the armistice. Ambassador Herrick was overcome with emotion and after a brief speech of his own was forced to return to the embassy and have Lindbergh to the care of others.

When the speeches were concluded and Lindbergh left, the chamber forgot its dignity and deputies toppled over chairs, jimmied lodges and vaulted from windows in order to get a glimpse of the flying hero.

HOLD UP PETITION FOR SACCO PARADE SUNDAY

A Sacco-Vanzetti parade, originally scheduled for next Sunday, was blocked today—at least temporarily—when the application of Maurice Donovan of the defence committee and John E. Barry were tabled until tomorrow by the street commissioners.

At a hearing before two of the board—Chairman Hultman and Commissioner Callahan—the woman parade sponsor said the march was designed for the purpose of meeting George Branting, son of the former League of Nations president, who arrives in Boston Sunday to study the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

The two commissioners, after hearing her argument, told her they would try to give her a decision tomorrow, when the full board will meet.

A Sacco-Vanzetti trial juror today declared that he favored life imprisonment instead of the electric chair for the two confessed men, but insisted that he believed they had had a fair trial and that the verdict was just.

"I am opposed to capital punishment," said the juror, Frank D. Marden of South Weymouth, answering questions of newspapermen after he left a two-hours' conference with Governor Fuller in the latter's private office.

"I was somewhat opposed to capital punishment at the time of the trial, and would have preferred seeing Sacco and Vanzetti get life imprisonment. But the law prescribed death for first degree murder, and

'WILD MAN' TERRIFIES REVERE GIRL IN WOODS

Chased through the dripping woods by a rock-throwing, unkempt man clad in sodden underwear, 15-year-old Lola Antonella of North Revere fled screaming to the main road near her home, collapsed, and started a man hunt in the Saugus woods today.

The girl, freshman at the Revere High School, was on her way to classes when the rain-soaked maniac leaped from the bushes into the line beside her and thrust out long, hairy arms in an attempt to seize her.

She is the third girl chased by the man in four days, police learned when little Helen Vesco, 7, and Lena Maisel, 6, reported that the Antonella girl, said he leaped at them last Saturday and threw rocks when they ran.

In the near future the Commissar said, all Soviet trade activities in Great Britain would be reduced to liquidating business already undertaken.

and suppressing his dislike for public speaking, Lindbergh arose to the occasion as easily as he arose to the difficulties of flying across the Atlantic when he was called upon to speak before the chamber—an honor extended to but few Americans heretofore.

This lad, who a fortnight ago unknown and who still loves the grime of the hangars and the whirring of motors tearing through space more than adulation, arose and addressed the French legislature, and did it in a manner that would have been a credit to men of greater experience in public life.

"About 150 years ago Ben Franklin was asked what use a trial balloon was," said Lindbergh, "and he replied, 'what use is a new-born baby.'

"Less than twenty years ago Blériot, your countryman, flew across the English Chanel and people said, 'what good is this?'

"Today a New York-Paris flight is a fact and they are asking, 'what good is an Atlantic flight?'

"It seems to me that we have served a wonderful purpose in bringing together two peoples and two sentiments in a friendship that has existed more than 100 years."

Then Lindbergh, having for the first time since he made his flight admitted his belief that he had actually accomplished something worthy of world attention, withdrew, his short speech being wildly acclaimed, but being all too short to suit his listeners.

The majority of the 500 Deputies were present and paid the closest attention as Lindbergh spoke in a cool, clear, boyish voice.

He apparently had steeled his courage for this event, for when he entered the gilded corridors of the Chamber he had been plainly nervous and had continually clung to Ambassador Herrick and Counselor Whitehouse.

General Girod, the first speaker, addressed Lindbergh personally on behalf of the Chamber.

"You have constructed a most magnificent aerial bridge, which has united two great world capitals," said the General.

"You have united not only two continents but two hearts which beat in unison for universal peace."

Lindbergh shifted uneasily and his face was afinsh as this speech was made. It was at this point that Ambassador Herick was overcome with emotion and sobbed openly.

"I am overcome by the emotion stirred in me by the expressions and sentiments I feel around me, resulting from what this boy—so worthily and so truthfully representing the spirit of American youth—has done for Franco-American friendship," said the ambassador.

"Your expressions prove that the American sentiment as brought here and expressed by this boy is reciprocated. I can't help remembering that when we needed you, you came to us."

With this the ambassador left the scene, too overcome to remain longer.

A little later Lindbergh also departed. His progress was a triumphal reception as he made his way through the boulevards. Crowds thronged about him and cheered wildly when he stopped at the offices of Le Matin and entered.

Seemingly unimpressed by his great ovation, Lindbergh went to

Mother Says 'Lindy' Is Like 'Another Henry Ford'

Detroit, May 25 (I.N.S.).—Captain Charles Lindbergh is like Henry Ford in his interest in mechanics, his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, said today.

Mrs Lindbergh, herself an honor student in mathematics and other sciences at the University of Michigan, believes her own attainments may have endowed her son with the knowledge that enabled him to make a flight that stunned the world.

'A Gentleman Can't Reply to That Question'

Paris, May 25 (I.N.S.).—Many mash notes have been received by Captain Charles Lindbergh in his voluminous mail, but he blushingly refuses to discuss them.

Asked if there were any proposals of marriage, Lindbergh replied, "A gentleman can't reply to that question."

John M. Bentley, former Tufts football player, was scathingly arraigned in Middlesex Probate Court today by Attorney Louis L. Bentley also has a cross suit for divorce ending against his wife, claiming desertion. Both parents seek custody of their seven-year-old son, "Junior."

Bentley's attorney, in summing his case, declared the evidence had shown Mrs. Bentley was not a proper parent for "Junior." Judge Charles N. Harris took the case under advisement.

haustion and terror on the floor of the Franklin Park branch postoffice in Salem street, which skirts the woods, a squad of police and a dozen or more citizens of the North Revere section were scouring the woods armed with clubs and guns.

They had set out on a long hunt for the near-naked maniac. The woods, known as the Saugus woods and the scene of a number of forest fires only a few weeks ago, ramble over into Saugus and Melrose for a distance of some ten miles, with innumerable places that afford concealment.

Threats against the apparently crazed molester of girls were made openly by Lola's neighbors engaged in the hunt.

When the Antonella girl had recovered sufficiently under a doctor's ministrations to tell what had happened, she said she was walking through the woods lane from her home to Salem street, where the bus picks up students for the high school.

About a hundred yards from the road, the man jumped from the bushes, reached out for her and then shrieked for her to stop.

Lola raced, screaming in desperation, for the highway as recks began to fall around her. She managed to reach the open and sped to the postoffice, where she collapsed. A doctor was summoned, and a telephone call brought police.

there was no alternative. The verdict of guilty was just.

"If ever I get into such a fix as those men did, I hope I shall receive as fair a trial."

"Were you influenced by the 'politics' of the men on trial?" Marden was asked.

"Not in the least," he replied, with a trace of resentment at the query. "Do you think I would vote to send men to the electric chair because they differed from me in their political views? No, that is much too serious a matter.

Other jurors have previously been interviewed by the Governor. Lewis McHardy of Milton said, after leaving Governor Fuller's office, that he had never changed his mind since the trial ended seven years ago. Harry E. King of Millis, Alfred L. Atwood of Norwood, George Gerard of Stoughton and Frank J. McNamara, refused to talk at the State House, except to the Governor, who is not disclosing the statements of any of them.

WIFE CHARGES ART STUDENT WITH NEGLECT

Claiming to be penniless, and with her two months' old baby girl to bring up, Mrs. Lillian Russell Barker swore out a complaint in Brookline district court, charging neglect of wife and child, against her husband, June Hard Barker, art student, son of well-to-do Boston parents.

Weeping in a hotel room, the young mother told the story of a shattered romance.

The complaint against Barker was turned over to the Brookline police for service on the young husband, whose whereabouts the wife could not tell.

"I met June at a dance in the Back Bay, and it was love at first sight for both of us," said Mrs. Barker, who is a Weymouth girl. "He told me he was an art student, that he had been studying in Paris, and was to complete his studies with a trip around the world.

"We went to Williamstown to be married, but the five-day law caused a change in our plans, and we were married by a justice of the peace in Hoosic Falls, N. Y. His parents forgave us, and we lived at the Kenmore for a while, later setting up housekeeping in Jamaica Plain.

"He worked at one thing and another, finally going to Claremont, N. H., where I joined him. He seemed so happy when baby June was born in March but he came to Boston to get a new position and then I was shocked not to hear from him except through an attorney, who sent $10.

"Left alone with the little tot, I finally came here after finding out that he was living at the Statler. I joined him at his suggestion, but the next day his parents came and I haven't seen him since he left the hotel in their company. I had to get my father to pay the hotel bill for me and baby."

HUB FOG TIES UP SHIPPING IN HARBOR

A heavy pall of fog settling over the harbor at mid-forenoon today nearly completely tied up shipping and held one passenger ship with several hundred passengers aboard tied up at Commonwealth Pier for a wait a lift.

The Coulich liner Martha Washington hugged the pier for more than an hour waiting for the blanket to lift.

Vessels outward bound, including the City of Carlisle at Cunard dock, East Boston; steamship Nyehaven, sugar boat at South Boston, and many coastwise vessels delayed their sailings until tonight or tomorrow.

The Yarmouth steamer Prince George pulled in to Central Wharf more than an hour late.

Showers early this morning made this the 19th day in the current month on which rain has fallen and advanced the month within three points of May, 1888, whose total of 27 days of rain is the wettest May record hereabouts in 56 years.

Precipitation in Greater Boston to date has been officially measured at 1.93 inches, but despite the frequency of the rain showers that mark it, 1.58 inches below the normal amount for this month.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday, probably with showers tonight; slightly warmer; moderate south to west winds.

'GOBS' BATTLE AT HARVARD

Five hundred gobs from the battleship Florida staged a sham-battle in the Harvard Stadium today while high officials of the navy looked on in approval.

Rifles, machine guns, automatic rifles and a three-inch gun crashed in a grand salvo as a supposed "landing party" made its way through the spaces of the stadium to be repulsed by the defending bluejackets.

Rear Admiral Phillip H. Andrews of the Charlestown Navy Yard, his aide, Lieutenant-Commander Jordan, and Captain A. H. Rice of the naval science department at Harvard were among the officers who viewed the sham battles.

The sailors marched from the navy yard to the Stadium with full packs and in heavy marching order. When the battle was over they partook of the emergency rations which each man carried, after which they marched back to the navy yard.

The sailors were under the command of Lieutenant-Commander Hamilton Bryan and Lieutenant C. R. Johnson.

Dallas, Tex., May 25 (A.P.)—While friends in the national capital were trying to get Congress to remit to Captain Charles Lindbergh the tax on his $25,000 prize for his Paris flight, William E. Easterwood, Jr., Texas capitalist, was taking a more direct route to the same end.

Lindbergh Is Honored at Luncheon With Bleriot

Paris, May 25 (A.P.)—Paris today paid new honors to Captain Lindbergh while admiring crowds wildly acclaimed the blonde "Viking of the Air," whose ocean hop has set a new mark in aviation history.

The captain had luncheon today with Louis Bleriot, the first man to fly over sea water.

Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic in 33½ hours and his companion at luncheon, Bleriot, 18 years ago, flew over the English Channel in 25 minutes with a motor that had never run more than 15 minutes without stopping for some reason or other.

It was a distinguished company that Bleriot had assembled to do honor to the American aviator. One of the most interesting there was Charles Fontaine, who was the first to greet Bleriot when he landed in England after his flight over the Channel.

Among those who attended the luncheon were Paul Painleve, minister of war; Maurice Bokanowski, former minister of the navy and now minister of public works; Louis Barthou, minister of justice; Ambassador Herrick, and his son, Parmley Herrick; the American naval attache, Captain Richard White; General Girod, a military aviator; Marquis de Rochambeau and many great French aviators, including Pelletier Doisy, Boissoutrot, Weiss and many technical men such as Louis Breguet, Louis Renault and Birkigt Nicaise.

GETS HISTORIC GIFT.

In toasting Lindbergh, Bleriot mentioned the various honors which have been showered on the youth, and added:

"You have received enough honors and mementos to prevent your ever forgetting France. In order that you may keep a small place in your remembrance for me, I thought, dear friend, of handing you an object which no one will ever steal from you, an ordinary piece of wood.

"It is a fragment of a propeller—the victorious propeller of the English Channel—please accept it in memory of the day your noble heart prompted you to reserve for me."

Captain Lindbergh is gaining more ease as a public speaker with experience, but takes a great care to keep to a clear sky.

He replied with his usual simplicity, regretting that he had nothing of importance to give in return, a statement which greatly amused the statesmen, industrial leaders and air aces present who are not accustomed to so much modesty in men who have come into the public eye.

Lindbergh was given the usual cheering reception by the crowd when his motor car drew up with the ambassador's dog "Jack" marking vigorous acknowledgments from beside the chauffeur.

During the entire luncheon hour the crowd kept accumulating so that by 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon nearly 1,000 persons were vociferously demanding a sight of the hero.

So insistent were his admirers that he appear that the American aviator consented to go to the balcony on the fifth floor, where Bleriot had his apartment.

He was accompanied by Bleriot, Ministers Painleve and Barthou and others and his appearance on the balcony was a signal for a wild demonstration.

CHEERED BY THRONGS.

The crowd and guests were in high good humor and a facetious Parisian drew joyous applause when pretending to ignore the aviator he shouted: "Vive Painleve, vive Barthou!"

The members of the Cabinet retired blushing and the men and women in the street below had Lindbergh to themselves.

A little later the entire company went into the garden of the home to be photographed in every possible grouping. M. Painleve modestly withdrew from one of the poses, but Lindbergh seeing him shrink away grabbed him with a long arm and hauled him into the group just as the shutter clicked.

The American aviator wore the same gray suit which he wore yesterday with a gray black knitted tie and the "high yaller" hoes which he was forced to buy yesterday when none other of the samples sent him was found to fit.

The airman's busy hours signing autographs have had their effect, and the captain appeared today with a big fountain pen tucked prominently in the upper left pocket of his neat double-breasted coat.

He seemed less tired than yesterday and, as always, was smiling and affable as he faced the hero worshippers.

Lindbergh's Paris Flight Is Lauded by Pope Pius

Rome, May 25 (A.P.)—Pope Pius considers the trans-Atlantic flight of Captain Lindbergh has contributed much to the transmission of thought between peoples and added greatly to the modern world's facilities of communication.

He made this known in a speech at a Vatican ceremony commemorating the third centennial of the foundation of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith, in the course of which he referred also to the religious situation in Mexico and affairs in China.

As for Mexico, he said, "Its heroic sufferance of persecution has earned it the right to be cited in the order of the glory of the church and civilization."

Bogus Reports Fool Paris "Hero Worshippers"

Paris, May 25 (A.P.)—Bogus announcements of whers hero worshippers might worship Captain Lindbergh fooled two crowds today.

The first was a big assemblage that jammed the streets in front of the Higher Normal School, where it had been stated that Lindbergh would be given a diploma this morning.

The crowd was finally persuaded that it had been led into an error or possibly some practical joker's prank.

Those who sought to run down the story of the diploma presentation inquired at the police commissariat and were told that Lindbergh would be at the Arch of Triumph. A smaller crowd at the Arch of Triumph likewise learned that a mistake had been made to their greatest disappointment.

Lindbergh found himself this morning wearing borrowed cuff links, so there was again some scrimshining on the telephone to obtain the necessary links.

Lindbergh is not only getting most of the things he asked for, but a lot he may neither need nor want. It appears that about every budding author and even those who have achieved fame have carried his or her latest book to the embassy with a request for the flier's autograph.

'LUCKY' TINKERS WITH 'OLD BUS'

SORRY HE CAN'T WORK ALL DAY ON IT AND FLY A LITTLE

Le Bourget, May 25. (INS.).—Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was back in his own sphere today, seemingly happy as he tinkered with wrenches and drills, working as an ordinary mechanic upon his plane, which has been standing in a hangar here since Saturday when Lindbergh arrived on his epochal flight from New York.

The grinning youth seemed hardly able to restrain himself when he arrived at the hangar this morning to work on his machine. He spurned offers from mechanics of overalls and jumpers, and, unmindful of his new clothes, started immediately climbing over the plane, examining the damage done by souvenir hunters and making arrangements for materials and tools with which to repair the plane.

WANTS TO BE ALONE.

The young flier made no effort to hide his satisfaction at being back in the world of motors and struts and gasolene and oil.

"I wish I could stay here all day and I wish I could fly a little," Lindbergh told the International News Service correspondent, as he started to work.

"My only chance of being alone is to go up on a flight, but unfortunately I cannot do that now, because I have too many engagements commencing at noon."

As Lindbergh worked busily upon the giant machine French mechanics gathered and stood in their grimy overalls admiring the hero of the hour and remarking upon his intimate knowledge with the mechanical workings of his machine.

Several of these French mechanics had been assigned to aid Lindbergh, but their admiration exceeded their energy and for the most part they stood by as awe-inspired onlookers while the American boy adjusted and tinkered, apparently tickled to death to do all the work himself.

LINDY HAPPY IN WORK.

Marshal Foch's aide, Captain Hostelet, acted as interpreter to Lindbergh, but not with a great deal of success.

Lindbergh knew only the English mechanical phrases and Captain Hostelet knew only the French phrases, and there was a good deal of laughing expostulation and slam language going on between Lindbergh and the French mechanics, as the American attempted to indicate his wants.

With good humor and apparent willingness to undergo any handicaps as long as he could remain with his machine, Lindbergh stumbled over the little groups that had gathered about in a desire to help him, but who actually impeded his work.

Always courteous, whenever he alighted from a stembadder upon the toes of some gaping French mechanic, Lindbergh apologized and there was an exchange of courtesies which would have made the mechanics at Garden City, where there is no mincing of language, gasp with surprise.

What a Change as Time, Like Lindy, Dashes By!

WELL, there's a difference as the years buzz by.

Back in the files, under date of 1909, these yellowing accounts tell of thrills in other days, but seven short years after Charles A. Lindbergh, "Scion of the Skies," was born.

These are headlines:

MODESTY WINS FOR 'LINDY'

Paris, May 25 (A.P.).—America's aviator-envoy, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, has won universal admiration and aroused unparalleled enthusiasm, but by his modesty and tact, displayed in the face of unprecedented attentions, he has won even greater honor—the respect of all classes of Frenchmen.

It was commented on everywhere today that never for one moment had the young American, who bounded so suddenly from comparative obscurity to world fame, lost his head or proved unequal to a situation in which he found himself thrust without preparation.

He has been called upon to act in circumstances which would have proved difficult for a ruler or seasoned diplomat trained in the usages of public life, and never once has he made a mistake.

He accepts compliments with the same manly dignity as he listens to what to him must be silly questions; he has replied to all alike with untiring patience and ready good nature.

Early to bed, early to rise is Lindbergh's motto; consequently he did not linger long at the little intimate dinner party given for him at the American embassy last night, notwithstanding that the guests were specially selected from among personalities who would be likely to be interesting to the airman.

Among them were the Marquis De Polignac, a noted figure in French aviation history.

Lindbergh Invited to Stop at U. S. Embassy in London

Paris, May 25 (A.P.).—One of the embassy guests here today was the military attache of the American Embassy at London who comes to present Ambassador Houghton's invitation to Captain Lindbergh to make the Embassy his home while in England.

Both the Danish and Dutch ministers at Paris called at the American Embassy during the forenoon with official requests that the aviator visit their countries. It is regarded as likely that he will accept at least one of these invitations.

"Lindy" Had 44 Gallons of Gas Left After Hop

Le Bourget, France, May 25 (I.N.S.).—Captain Lindbergh had forty-four gallons of gasoline left when he arrived in Paris last Saturday night at the end of his historic flight from New York. It was revealed today when the seals were removed from the fuel tanks of "The Spirit of St. Louis" and the contents checked. The fuel that was not consumed would have permitted Lindbergh to have flown on for another 395 miles, it was estimated.

Flatly Rejects Zukor's $300,000 Movie Offer

Paris, May 25 (I.N.S.).—Adolph Zukor, leaving for New York on the S.S. Majestic today, announced that Captain Lindbergh had definitely rejected his offer of a $300,000 motion picture contract.

"He told me definitely that he would not accept any theatrical movie offer, but he would consider a commercial offer connected with aviation," said Zukor.

PARIS CAFES OFFER 'LINDY' FREE MEALS

Paris, May 25 (A.P.).—Among the thousands of letters and telegrams which have been sent to him, the ones which afforded Captain Lindbergh the most amusement are communications from two restaurants in Paris announcing that he can eat free of the best they have for the rest of his life, and another from a tailor ready to clothe him sumptuously at the same price until the end of his days.

He has even received offers of houses fully furnished from a number of cities in the United States.

Apparently all the "Lindberghs" of the Globe are writing or cabling, claiming relationship. Two hundred messages signed "Lindbergh" already have been received, rejoicing over the fame brought to the family name.

Five sacks of mail and 2,000 telegrams have been received at the embassy to date. One perfumed missive contained a gold medallion, while there are many other perfumed envelopes containing impassioned expressions of devotion.

LINDBERGH DOESN'T DARE GO SHOPPING

Paris, May 25 (A.P.).—Lindbergh, like the King, summons merchants who come running to service. He doesn't dare go shopping yet, for he is too popular.

Streets are blocked whenever he appears and any shop in Paris would welcome him, but the crowds are too much.

Captain Lindbergh therefore has the stores bring samples to him and his choices so far have met the approval of Paris, for he looks well in his new clothes.

NEW SUSPECT IN WELL MURDER

reveal what the questioning developed they did say Mrs. Frazier was familiar with certain details of the romance between her daughter and Da Silva. These details, police say, are of value in the State's case.

The little boy is too young to be of much help in the investigation, police said. However, the boy was questioned at length.

While the romance between Mrs. Gibbons and Da Silva, which resulted in her husband bringing court action against them, is a matter of common knowledge here, police are investigating their every movement.

SLAIN IN CITY.

Their arrest followed finding of blood-stained clothing in the clothes they occupied. A woman's silk chemise and man's shirt, both blood-stained, were discovered by police on a surprise raid a few hours after Gibbons' body was found.

Police said today they were confident the man had been murdered in the city and the body taken in an automobile to the deserted farm and buried in the well. Police have seized the sedan which Mrs. Gibbons and Da Silva owned. They also seized a motorcycle said to belong to Da Silva.

According to police, Gibbons incurred Da Silva's wrath when the court granted him $1,000 in a love action. Since then, police charge, there has been enmity between Gibbons and his wife and her sweetheart.

Woman, 'Listening In,' Struck Dead by Short Circuit

Sudbury, Middlesex, Eng., May 25 (A.P.)—Experts are investigating the peculiar circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Violet Rainford, who was killed apparently as the result of an electric shock while listening with ear phones to a radio crystal set.

It appears that she was holding an electric reading lamp at the time. It is thought there might have been a short circuit in the lamp and she received the shock through her steel spectacle frames in contact with the radio head phones, the circuit being grounded through the radio set.

PINEDO PLANE STILL ADRIFT

Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores, May 25 (A. P.)—A rough sea today caused unfavorable conditions for Commander De Pinedo's seaplane, reported in tow of a sailing schooner about 240 miles west of this island.

The plane came down in the sea while attempting the hop from Trepassey, Newfoundland, to this port. There has been no further authoritative news since that stating one of the wings of the plane was crippled and that there were minor damages.

At last reports the Portuguese gunboat Beira was still searching for the schooner and its tow.

GRANDDAD OF 'LINDY' A HERO

Minneapolis, May 25 (A.P.).—Plucky ins in the Lindbergh family. The New York-to-Paris flier's paternal grandfather, who settled in Minnesota before the Civil War, had his years of it, it was shown in a dusty tome in the Minneapolis Public Library.

The book—the 1916 report of the State Horticultural Society—revealed that Captain Charles A. Lindbergh's grandfather, who came to this State penniless, lost his right arm in an accident, but continued the development of his homestead in spite of the handicap.

The Rev. C. S. Harrison of York, Neb., journeyed to the horticultural meeting to relate the story.

"In 1861 I was living in Sauk Centre, where I preached the first sermon," Harrison said. "About ten miles from the city there was a sturdy Swede, who was at one time speaker of one branch of the Swedish Parliament and for a while secretary to the King.

"He had moved to Minnesota about 1860, and he was poor.

"He took a pre-emption and built a little log house 12 by 14. One day he took a load of logs to the mill and, stumbling, fell on the saw. This caught him in the back and also took a stab at his right arm.

"It was hot weather and there was no surgeon within fifty miles.

"Obtaining a horse from a neighbor and a man to ride him, I sent for the doctor. Though it took the doctor three days to get there, we kept the patient with such care that his clean habits and robust constitution carried him through the operation successfully. I helped the doctor and we took off the arm near his shoulder.

Call St. Louis Backers to Plan "Lindy" Reception

Washington, May 25 (A.P.).—St. Louis backers of the New York-to-Paris flight of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh were invited today by Secretary Davis of the War Department to confer with him as to recognition to be accorded the flier upon his return to his country.

The invitation was extended after Mr. Davis had conferred with Harry F. Knight and H. K. Blair, two of the sponsors of the flight.

The secretary feels that Lindbergh should receive the Congressional Medal of Honor as a reward for his record-breaking flight.

The War Department, he added, would support any special legislation to make the award possible as was done after Commander Richard E. Byrd had flown over the North Pole.

Lindbergh also should be given the army's Distinguished Flying Cross, Mr. Davis said, adding that should minor technicalities interfere he believed they would be waived without protest.

Protest High Insurance

Residents of Riverdale and Pinehurst stations of Hingham today protested against "high" insurance rates imposed by companies on property in their neighborhoods at a hearing before State Insurance Commissioner Wescott E. Monk.

"You should have washed them the safest way!"

"You can imagine my distress recently when the stockings I bought to go with my new tailored suit lost their color in washing. They were wrecks! They had lost their rich, silken lustre and were horribly streaked besides! So back I went, full of indignation, to the store where I bought them.

"The moment their adjuster saw them he said, 'You should have washed such sheer, delicate stockings in Lux! That's the safest way, for the alkali in most soaps fades and rots them, while rubbing makes them streaky.'

"He replaced the ruined stockings with another pair on condition that I wash them only in Lux. Now I wash all my stockings the safe way and keep them even-colored, silken-sheer until they wear out." —Mrs. A. E. Christoffers, 950 Ponce de Leon Avenue, Atlanta, Georgia.

81% of the women interviewed in Atlanta wash silk stockings, sheer fabrics and delicate woolens in Lux

2 interesting letters selected from the 475,000 received the past year by the makers of Lux.

"Why, they're still like new!"

"Among my wedding presents were two handsome pairs of blankets which I took great pride in. When the time came to wash one pair I was afraid to trust them to anyone else.

"I washed them myself. I thought I was being so careful and I ruined them! To my horror they came out harsh and stiff and matted!

"An older married friend who was visiting me at the time told me that there are two things that quickly ruin delicate fabrics, especially woolens—rubbing with cake soap and the injurious alkali found in many kinds of soap.

"She suggested that I wash the second pair in Lux. I followed her advice and to my joy, they came out as beautiful and soft as the day they were given to me!"—Ann J. Liaton, 23 Flint Road, Watertown, Mass. (Suburb of Boston.)

In Boston 76% of all the women asked use Lux for washing fine fabrics—most of them prefer the BIG package—it's so convenient!

CHILD CLEARS MOTHER OF KIDNAPING

A child's story exonerated her mother and step-father today in Waltham district court, where charges of kidnaping against Mr. and Mrs. John Garrick of Hancock street, Boston, were dismissed.

The story of Velma Collins, 14, daughter of Mrs. Garrick by her first marriage, was told to Judge Mannon by Police Lieutenant Burke of Watertown, where the alleged kidnaping of Velma and her two sisters took place.

"Velma Collins told me she telephoned her mother asking her to come and get her and her younger sisters," explained Lieutenant Burke, recommending that the charges be dropped. "Further investigation showed us that others believe the children are better off with their mother, although the divorce courts granted their father custody of them."

The Garricks were arrested May 18 when police entered their apartment and forced Mrs. Garrick to tell where she had taken the children after removing them from the Collins home in Chapman street Watertown.

BOSTON LOSES BIG FIGHT ON GRAIN RATES

Washington, May 25 (A.P.)—A complaint of the Boston Maritime Association against grain rates from the West was dismissed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In the present schedules there is a differential favoring the movement of export wheat to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. The Maritime Association asked that Boston be given rates in line with the other Atlantic ports both on grain handled entirely by rail and on grain moved over the Great Lakes to Buffalo and thence returned to the railroad for the haul to the coast.

While the Commission said it might be possible to prescribe identical rates from Buffalo to the Atlantic ports, the facts brought out in the hearings were not sufficient to justify action.

It was held that rates in general were reasonable, and that the charge of discrimination against Boston had not been proved.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Miss Caroline L. Keyes and Stedman Buttrick Exchange Wedding Vows Today in First Parish Meetinghouse, Concord

BRIDES-TO-BE GO GAILY on with wedding plans and trust to a variable god of weather to send sunshine for the all-important day. Nuptial interest in the younger set centered today in the historic town of Concord where, in the old First Parish Meetinghouse near the Green, Miss Caroline L. Keyes and Stedman Buttrick exchanged their vows. Both young people hail from old Colonial stock and it was eminently fitting that they solemnized their marriage in the town where history was made during those fateful Colonial days.

SOME VERY LOVELY BRIDE attendant frocks and hats, with their matching satin shoes and gossamer stockings, are being swathed in layers of tissue for their journey to Bernardsville, down in New Jersey, there to be worn at the Honora Mason-John Winston wedding festivities on Saturday. It is a particularly effective corps of maids the bride-elect chooses to precede her up the aisle—each one of whom will lend chic and atmosphere to gowns the very essence of that simplicity that is the supreme smartness of Paris; a clever Boston modiste has done this simplicity into chiffons that every feminine critic will declare "adorable."

WHEN THAT PRETTY, fluffy-haired and blue-eyed bride, Miss Mary Mathews, paces slowly aisleward, her entourage will include four younger sisters. First there will come Miss Grace and Miss Anne Mathews leading the processional of feminine attendants; then comes Miss Olivia walking with Mrs. James H. LeFevre, the former Miss Barbara Endicott, and thirdly, Miss Elinor Baker and Miss Leigh Kendall. Miss Betty Mathews, who came out with the past Winter's bud set, will be the maid of honor, walking just before the bride herself.

GEORGE MATHEWS, JR., brother of the bride-elect, will be in the bridegroom's squad. He has, in fact, come all the way up from Cuba for his sister's marriage to J. Howard Wing. So the Mathews family will be finely represented. The hour of the ceremonial is high noon, in that important churchly edifice in Dedham, St. Paul's. Immediately after the fateful words are said the guests go over to the Mathews home in Village street for the reception.

PLANS FOR THE WEDDING OF Miss Ethel Cummings and John Malcolm Forbes are in the nebulous state out of which emerges the fact that Miss Evelyn Cummings is to be the maid of honor in the wedding pageant that will move up Trinity's aisle before a most important wedding company. Between them the young people have family lines that connect them with a score of important Boston houses, so it will be Boston's best that rustles into its appointed places in the dim old church.

JUNE FOR THIS BRIDE IS A most important month. For scarcely does she accept her college diploma at Radcliffe before the bridal march commences. Graduation one day and marriage the next is the plan. And graduation includes for her many duties and honors, for she is also the first marshal of her class. Mr. Forbes also finds June exceedingly important, for he, too, completes his theological course at that time. He is the son of Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes of Milton and a student at the Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

ABOUT JUNE 15 MR. AND MRS. CHARLES K. CUMMINGS, JR., and Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman Paine, Jr., arrive from the other side. Just now I understand they are traveling in Italy. The Cummings, Jr. (she was Miss Betty Russell), went over a month or two ago, but young Mr. and Mrs. Paine, Jr. (she was Miss Ruth Forbes), have been living in Paris since their marriage a year or more ago. They will come home together in time for Miss Ethel's wedding. A honeymoon Summer spent on a Wyoming ranch is on the cards for the young people.

A NUMBER OF THE Providence fashionable set will come to town for the marriage celebration of Miss Helen Chedbourne Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Knight of Reading and Abbot Newton Graves. The bridegroom-elect, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Graves of Providence, is to be supported at the altar by two brothers—Eugene Brainerd Graves as best man and Hubert Graves in the usher squad. The smaller son of the Graves family, Master Franklin, together with little Miss Hope Graves, Miss Jean Graves and Miss Joan Hubbard, are the train and ring and flower bearers in the elaborate pageantry of the wedding processional.

THE LONG FORTEGE will include Mrs. Gooch Sargent, Miss Rosamond Davis, Mrs. John Alden Loring, Mrs. Ernest Dalton Richmond Jr., Miss Elizabeth Wilde, and Miss Augusta Soch, to surround the bride at the altar. Albro N. Dana, Howard L. Bell, Philip H English, Nathan B. Newton, Brainerd Falconer, Silas Brainerd and Ernest D. Richmond, Jr., are in the masculine staff. Guests are coming way across the ocean, from Vienna, for the wedding at four in the afternoon of June 4 in the First Congregational Church out in Reading; Chicago is sending a representation, and others are from New York and various New England points.

After a honeymoon journey to Europe they sail on June 5; the young people will live at Wayland Manor.

EVERYONE CONCEDES THAT the Jacobs Hill Hunt Horse Show could not have been the great success it was without the assistance of that bright bevy of girls of the Junior League. Miss Kathleen Fielding-Jones, Mrs. Robert O. Read and Miss Julia Tower, flitting about as cigarette vendors, were as welcome as the flowers of Spring, and every bit as radiant. They are representative of the ultra Providence set that came out in such numbers for the Show. Already plans are under way for a next year's occasion, so I am told, that will be far and away better than this could such be possible.

Efficiency Cuts Utility Rates; U. S. Outlook Good

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, May 25.—Although wholesale commodity prices are nearly half as high again as they were before the war and retail food prices higher still, a few industries have made such progress in skill and efficiency that they have been able to bring their selling prices below the pre-war figures. Conspicuous examples are the automobile industry and the electric light and power industry.

We all know that one dollar of five hundred dollars or one thousand dollars or three thousand dollars will go much further when it comes to buying an automobile than the same amount would have gone in 1913. But all of us are not equally familiar, perhaps, with the success achieved by the electric industry in prices and rates. The record is impressive.

USING 1913 figures as representing 100 per cent., the records show that retail food prices ruled at 70 per cent in 1900 and that residence electricity cost nearly 170 per cent. What has happened since the war? The cost of living has gone up more than 50 per cent, but the cost of the electricity we use in our homes has actually gone down 15 per cent.

RECENTLY a certain nationally-known business man wrote this column one day. One or two readers advised me to repeat the experiment once in a while—a back-handed compliment! Today I am going to have John J. O'Brien, president of H. M. Byllesby and Company, large-scale utility owners and operators, of Chicago, write the column—in the form of a letter received from Mr. O'Brien in response to a request for his views on the business outlook in this country.

"I see no reason for apprehension over the continuation of business activity and a generally high average of prosperity throughout the United States. In my opinion, except in territories affected by floods, the agricultural situation is improving. There is no boom period to fight, but most definitely a period of reasonably good times. Modern business recognizes the necessity of replacing the facts before the public so that they can be easily understood. Frank publicity is the best defence against unwarranted attack.

"THE ELECTRIC light and power industry increases its usefulness to the public year by year. The holding, or investment management companies are particularly important to the small cities, towns and countrysides. These organizations have widely extended transmission lines and thus place ample, low-priced electric energy at the disposal of these communities. Their large plants and transmission systems not only give better service, but reduce costs to the consumer, compared with small isolated plants. This enables the establishment of good-sized industries in small cities and towns, which means healthy community development.

"IT IS only through transmission systems, such as the holding companies are responsible for, that there is any hope of supplying electricity to the farms. This particular phase of electrical development is increasing steadily. It represents one of the hardest problems we have ever tackled, but with cooperative effort, it seems apparent that we shall succeed.

"Any genuine study of the electric light and power business will show that it is only through large, specialized organizations, such as holding companies, that adequate supplies of power and progressive rate reductions can be expected by the public.

"THE POPULARITY of electric light and power company securities among the customers of these companies and the public generally, continues to grow, and there are places today where every sixth household owns stock in the company supplying it with service. Many companies enjoy a local demand for their securities in excess of their requirements. This condition, it seems to me, is most encouraging."

* * *

MAY I ADD this suggested slogan for all companies supplying us with the necessaries of life:

"Say it with lower rates."

CHIEF OUTLINES LABOR WAR ON INJUNCTION

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Legislation to protect labor "against the abuse of the writ of injunction" by Federal and State courts will be sought in Congress and State Legislatures by the American Federation of Labor, William Green, president, declared today before the Bankers' Club of New York.

Declaring no nation can succeed in industrial competition unless labor, like industry and capital, is permitted to organize, Green said labor was unable to reconcile itself to recent court decisions upholding injunctions in labor disputes. He added that labor "could not abide by these decisions and live and function."

"In such a dilemma what can labor organizations do?" he asked. "To obey these injunctions means annihilation, to violate them means persecution and punishment. Labor protests against being placed in such a position.

He asserted that aside from "the destructive effects which injunctions have upon activities of organized labor," they impose great financial burdens because they entail long and costly court proceedings.

"We have long believed that the Sherman anti-trust law was a barrier to industrial, economic and agricultural development," he said. "It has not prevented growth and expansion of big business but in addition to hampering labor it has served to restrict and circumscribe legitimate business."

Mrs. Wandling denied she had deserted her husband for another man shortly after their marriage. She said she and Wandling had lived together only six weeks. She left him because she was told Wandling's divorce from Elizabeth Frances Ingraham MacVitty Wandling, opera singer, was not legal because it was obtained in Illinois where Wandling had no residence.

WANT $500,000 FOR STREETS

Mayor Nichols, at the next meeting of City Council, a week from Monday, will ask for an emergency appropriation of half a million dollars to provide for street construction and repairs.

This was the graphic answer of the Mayor today to the criticism of General Francis Peabody, vice-president of the Boston Workhouse Relief Association, who, at the annual dinner of the association declared Boston's streets were "dirty, poorly paved and a hardship on horses, pedestrians and taxpayers alike."

The Mayor refused to discuss General Peabody's speech, but he announced he would make every effort to secure the half a million dollars for street work.

At City Hall it was pointed out the Mayor originally asked for $950,000 for street repair and improvement work.

"What Boston needs is a million dollars spent on its streets," the Mayor told his interviewers.

The Mayor also announced he would use police effort to see that Boston's streets are kept as free of dirt as possible during the Summer months.

PRESBYTERIAN BODY IN ROW ON DOCTRINE

San Francisco, May 25 (A.P.).—The prospect of a battle in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., which opens here tomorrow, over the administration and doctrinal controversy involving Princeton Theological Seminary, seemed today with the announcement of Dr. Clarence Macartney, former moderator of the church, that his following would oppose adoption of a special committee report on the school.

Dr. Macartney, a director of the seminary, declared the controversy was definitely one between the "so-called liberal and conservative factions in the church."

"I and my associates are here to carry our fight for Princeton to the floor of the assembly," he continued. "We will oppose adoption of the report and the proposed reorganization."

Dr. Macartney asserted that, until the doctrinal dispute arose over Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick there were no serious difficulties at Princeton, but then it was clear the board would take a strong hand "to uphold the purity of church doctrines."

The report of the special committee recommends a single board of control in place of the existing board of trustees and board of directors, and that the appointment of Professor J. Gresham Machen to the chair of apologetics be not confirmed.

Dr. Macartney warmly defended Machen as a man of great distinction in his field.

When the committee on marriage and divorce met yesterday to consider the proposed elimination of wilful desertion as an approved ground for divorce it was unable to come to an immediate agreement and action was postponed until next November.

RAJAH RABOID TO STAY IN HUB ANOTHER WEEK

Rajah Raboid, the Oriental wonder-worker, whose feats of mind reading and legerdemain have mystified audiences at the Washington Street Olympia, has been retained at that house for another week.

He has been answering all sorts of questions put to him by the theatre patrons and has subjected himself to severe tests of mentality in other places throughout the city. Because of the public's interest in these exploits, the mystic gentleman is staying for the rest of this week.

WHIPPET NO. 100,000

JUST OFF ASSEMBLY LINE

John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland, Inc., was on hand at the factory to receive it. He is shown in the photo with the car in front of the company's administration building in Toledo.

OAKLAND PUTS OUT NEW CAR

Pontiac, Mich., May 25.—The Oakland Motor Car announces the Pontiac Six DeLuxe Delivery Chassis, without body, in addition to the two models, with screen and panel bodies, already introduced. While the screen and panel body types meet most business requirements, certain fleet and other types of bodies, and it is to such users that the chassis is offered.

This chassis has the famous Pontiac Six engine. Interchangeable bronze-backed bearings, large piston pins, ironed cylinders, and a lubrication system which circulates 250 gallons of oil per hour at an average speed of 25 miles per hour, are among the usual features. It has heavy duty type tires and heavier rear springs.

The ready acceptance of the Pontiac six DeLuxe Delivery cars with panel and screen type bodies now on the market promises well for the commercial chassis," said Dwight Horsey, general manager of the Oakland Motors Company of New England. "Users find much solid satisfaction in a six-cylinder commercial car because of its adaptability to traffic conditions, and lesser vibration in a "Six" which reduces wear and tear and results in longer life and lower costs. The Pontiac Six DeLuxe Delivery has proved itself highly reliably handled and very economical."

CADILLACS NOW HAVE ONE KEY FOR ALL LOCKS

"You can imagine the chagrin of the golfer driving up to the first tee to take his place in the foursome and discovering that his clubs are securely locked in the golf compartment of his car and that the key is in his other suit at home," said Albion Danforth, general manager of the Cadillac of Boston. "Also one can visualize the man delayed out in the country with a burned out light bulb, the extras in the tool box of his car and the key hanging in the garage some twenty miles distant."

"In the latest Cadillac and LaSalle lines, however, these old-style locks are 'out,' and out to stay. With one key operating the shift lock, extra tire lock, tool box, ignition, carrier and doors, the nuisance of forgetting the large key ring has been eliminated and the accident who has the one key necessary to get the car out of the family garage, has access to whatever may be locked up in any of the car's compartments.

DODGE MOTOR SAVES GAS

"If this new engine gives the car so much more power and greater acceleration, how can the car, at the same time, deliver more miles to each gallon of gasoline?" This question is frequently asked by persons inspecting the new motor recently brought out by Dodge Brothers, according to C. F. Mussey, of the Henshaw Motor Company, Dodge Brothers dealer in Boston.

"The answer," says Mr. Mussey, "is simple."

"Instead of building a larger engine or speeding it up, the Dodge Brothers engineers have made improvements in the carburetor, the intake manifold and the cylinder head. It was found that heating the manifold with water from the cylinder jackets was not economical and consequently a new method was devised, whereby the manifold is made shorter than formerly and a section is heated to a temperature much higher than that of the water in the jackets by being brought in close proximity to the exhaust.

"The first advantage of this construction is the increase in power, acceleration and in smoothness of performance which comes from a more uniform and more completely vaporized mixture. A second advantage and one of great importance, is that the engine is remarkably sure after it is started 'warms up' to such an extent that it develops full power and runs smoothly without the necessity of maintaining too rich a mixture by keeping the carburetor control button out. This gives a saving of fuel which, but for the exhaust heated section, would be wasted, and it prevents in a large measure the dilution of oil which results when liquid fuel is drawn directly into cold cylinders."

HEAVY DEMAND FOR NEW NASH COUPE

Dealers report an unusually heavy demand for the new Nash 4-passenger coupe. Those who have seen it say the 4-passenger coupe is the "most perfect specimen of Nash body craftsmanship" ever presented to the public.

The coupe has a low forward-sweeping body, French-type hood and roof, and a graceful nickel-mounted rear deck. The deep, broad driving seat has all the appearance and comfort of a luxurious davenport. It is upholstered in dark green mohair, tufted. The wide doors, side walls and head-lining are trimmed to match.

WHIPPET HITS NEW RECORD

Toledo, O., May 25.—When the one-hundred thousandth Whippet rolled off the assembly line at the Willys-Overland plant, John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Inc., was on hand together with other executives of the company to receive the car.

The completion of this car sets a new production record in the industry for a new car in its first year.

Mr. Willys commented on this new achievement as "a marked indication of the general prosperity of this new type of automobile in all sections of the country."

Actual production work on the Whippet models was started by Willys-Overland on May 12, 1926, and the first of these new cars was ready for delivery late in June. By reaching the 100,000 mark in less than a year's production period, the Toledo manufacturer has accomplished a record outstanding in the annals of the automobile industry.

7 FERNCROFT GIRLS AND 10 MEN FINED

Salem, May 25.—Twenty-four defendants, nine of them girls, lined up in court today, some charged with dancing at Ferncroft Inn on a Sunday, others charged with participating in a public diversion and selling liquor.

Fourteen, including seven girls, pleaded guilty to participating or dancing, and paid fines of $5 each; three went on trial, were found guilty of dancing and had their cases filed on payment of $5 costs, and the cases of the seven others were continued to June 1.

The latter are William McLaughlin, manager of the inn; Harry A. Barry and John Petrios, waiters, and John Cooper, Robert Folsom, Joseph F. Shallow and Warren Keefe, orchestra members.

McLaughlin is charged with maintaining a public diversion on the Lord's Day, the waiters with selling liquor and the orchestra men with participating.

It was stated in court that it was impossible to serve summonses on four other prospective defendant-dancers, who gave their names as Clara Demara, Margaret Vail, George Horner and Bebe Nelson.

Those who pleaded guilty and paid $5 fines are: George E. Drake, Joseph W. Rose, Katherine Rose, Raymond J. Hall, Robert Gilkie, Emma Steiner, Ruth Seigal, Doris Seigal, Manuel Seigal, Jean Friedman, Sam Friedman, Evelyn Hodsman, Louis Keezer and Helen Murphy.

Dorothy Chamberlain of Chamberlain avenue, Revere; Irene Fortin of Sherman avenue, Nahant, and Walter D. Pecitt of Delano avenue, Revere, were the three who pleaded not guilty and went to trial.

Lieut. James Hughes of the State Constabulary, stationed at Framingham barracks, was prosecutor and had several officers as witnesses, among them Corporal William Buzzo of Concord Barracks and Sergeant Daniel Murphy.

Irene Fortin testified it was the first time she had ever been in a roadhouse and that her fright had been so great when the troopers rushed over to her table on the Sunday of the raid that she did not remember what they said to her.

The troopers testified they had seen the three dancing and that they previously had bought liquor from the waiters.

Silly Roxbury Effigy Puts "Busy Buzz" On Many Phones

A very silly busy wire caused a flurry in Roxbury today, several wires being busy, in fact, because of an effigy tossed across them.

The effigy, wearing a doll's head and clad in overalls, was sighted by many people at Parker street and Longwood avenue, but it was a mystery how the dummy got on the network of telephone and telegraph wires.

It would have taken a strong arm and a true aim to put the effigy there.

And nobody seemed to know anything about it.

RUSSIA WARNS OF REPRISALS

organizations in London to fulfill the engagements already made, and demanded like treatment by British firms.

London, May 25 (A.P.)—Although it appeared obvious today that the Baldwin government was assured endorsement of its policy to sever relations with Soviet Russia it was not expected the decision would go unchallenged by the opposition.

The precise form in which the challenge will be given will be decided at a special meeting today of the Labor party, under the presidency of the former Labor Premier, Ramsay MacDonald, just returned from the United States.

The loss of Russian trade for an entire year will not equal the loss Great Britain suffered in three days in last year's general strike, said George Terrell, president of the National Union of Manufacturers, in an address today.

Mr. Terrell said that the Soviet government and Arcos, the Russian commercial organization, had been selling in England three pounds worth of Russian goods for every one pound worth they purchased.

"Consequently, the balance of trade and the benefit is entirely against us," he said. "The loss of our China trade brought about by the Soviets mean infinitely more to us than the Russian trade."

Premier Baldwin's statement in the House of Commons that Michael Borodin acted in China under direct orders from the Moscow government and his quotation of a telegram supporting his claim have strengthened reports that Chang Tso-Lin's raid on the Soviet embassy compound in Peking may have produced documents which encouraged the British raid upon Soviet House in London.

FORGER OUT OF ONE JAIL WILL GO TO ANOTHER

Arrested as he stepped off the Deer Island boat, James C. Dolan of Lowell pleaded guilty in Federal Court today before Judge James M. Morton to an indictment in 12 counts charging forgery of postal money orders and breaking and entering a postoffice.

He was put back for sentence, awaiting investigation of his record by Federal Probation Officer Richard McSweeney. According to Asst. U. S. Atty. John V. Spalding, Dolan broke into the Coldspring postoffice, near Lawrence, in June, 1925, and stole 10 money orders to which he formed the name of the postmaster, J. W. Fletcher. Dolan has just completed a term of 21 months for check forging.

ELDERS SHOULD BE BROUGHT UP BY YOUNGSTERS

"The young people of today should be permitted to sit around in solemn conclave and decide how their elders should be brought up, instead of vice versa," Percy W. Gardner of the Unitarian Laymen's League told several hundred delegates at a meeting of the General Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women in Tremont Temple today.

"The young people of today are all right. What the old people should do is learn something about the young people, how they think and what their ideals are. He more sympathetic with the young folks and you'll get along better with them," the speaker declared.

The annual election of officers was held in connection with the meeting today. Mrs. Oscar C. Gallagher of Brookline retired as president and was succeeded by Mrs. Caroline S. Atherton of Boston.

JURY FINDS AUTOIST GUILTY IN DRUNK CASE

A jury in Superior Court today, before Chief Justice Hall, returned a verdict against Samuel Asher, a moving picture operator, for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor on April 1. Sentence will be imposed Tuesday.

Ivanhoe — By Sir Walter Scott

NEXT day the Strange Knight was again victor in the tournament. He was led before Rowena to receive the crown and, when his helmet was removed, he was revealed as Wilfred of Ivanhoe. As Rowena placed the wreath on his head he fainted, for he had been wounded.

CEDRIC had disinherited Ivanhoe, because his son loved Rowena, but now he gave orders that his servants care for the wounded knight. But Ivanhoe had disappeared: the servants of Isaac of York had carried him to the Jew's lodgings to be tended by Isaac's daughter, Rebecca.

WHILE returning from the tournament Cedric and his train fell in with Isaac, who had been deserted by the men engaged to protect him and his daughter along the road. Cedric offered protection and soon after the combined party was attacked by armed men thought to be thieves.

CEDRIC'S party surrendered. Later, when they were imprisoned in a castle, they found that their assailants were not thieves but the soldiers of a knight, Maurice De Bracy, who approached Rowena and asked her to marry him. Bois-Guilbert was also present. (Continued Tomorrow.)

RICKARD TO HOLD RING SHOW HERE

Tex Plans Big Tourney at Braves Field This Summer to Aid Democratic Fund

By JACK CONWAY

TEX RICKARD is making plans for a gigantic boxing show at Braves Field this summer as part of the campaign of the National Democratic committee to raise funds for the coming presidential campaign.

Tex has the backing of many prominent Democrats in his plan to stage the show, and he is confident that he can put on a show that will attract a crowd of 100,000 people.

The show will be held on the evening of July 4, and will feature a number of well-known boxers. Tex has not yet announced the names of the boxers who will appear on the card, but he says that he has several in mind.

The proceeds from the show will be turned over to the Democratic National Committee to help defray the expenses of the campaign.

HARD AT WORK getting in shape for his coming bouts with Ace Hudkins and Joe Simonich is Al Mello, Lowell welterweight star, as the camera proves.

Miles Defeats DeMar and Henigan

Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, May 25—Johnny Miles, Quincy, Mass., won the 15-mile race of the Black Diamond track, here leading a field which included Clarence DeMar of Melrose, Mass., winner of the 1927 Boston marathon, James Henigan, Dorchester (Mass.) Club, and Silas McLellan, Nord, Hants County, Nova Scotia.

Miles, who won the Boston marathon in 1926, covered the 15 miles in 1 hour and 30 minutes 27 seconds. Henigan was second.

Hub Fistic Capital Ready for Big Fights Rickard to Step In

Tilden Going Strong Saved "Pure" Tennis Real Champion

By Nick Flatley

BOSTON SOON WILL HAVE BIG RING WARS

Boston is getting ready to be officially declared the boxing capital of the country. Four near champions, who will be wearing crowns in all likelihood before another year passes, come from this part of the world, and will continue to do that.

Jack Sharkey has the heavy title in front of him. Al Melick is the most promising of the welterweight contenders, Honeyboy Finnegan, Sammy Fuller and Red Chapman have the featherweight crown between them and the Honeyboy will step out shortly and be lightweight champ, if he isn't killed meantime peeling off weight.

Nick Flatley

With all that talent hereabouts, the promoters are utterly looking at Boston. The Sharkey-Maloney crowd was a lesson to them. Something like $75,000 in gate receipts went over to New York for that row. There was as much Boston money spent on ringside seats as there was New York dollars.

Any city that will send fans traveling and spending, should be good for the big shots at home. Sharkey and Maloney at $25 prices, would have drawn as much money at Braves Field as they did at the Yank Stadium. Boston will come close to outdrawing any other big city to watch little battlers have it out.

The promoters here have been afraid to take the chances, although the big profits have been staring right at them. The first who steps out will get the inside track.

IF TEX RICKARD DOESN'T HOP OVER AND STEAL IT AWAY.

Tex is going to put on a fight here this Summer. That will be a feeler. He believes that any large city will provide the doubloons, if the attraction is right. He proved that at the great Sesqui rumpus.

Philadelphia was known as a $5 top town. Which is to say that the fans will pay no more than that sum for ringside seats. Boston has the same reputation. Tex went to Philly, with top prices at $25, attracted 130,000 customers and took in $1,800,000. And he says himself that 90 per cent. of that crowd was from Pennsylvania.

A championship fight at either of our ball parks would draw a capacity house at any old price the backer cared to charge. Some one will try that, and collect.

And we're to do on a rainy day,
But as I the matter draw his pay

EVEN THE BRIEFEST STOP AT A RACE TRACK WILL PROVE THAT THE GOOD THINGS OF LIFE SELDOM COME THROUGH. ASK HAPPY, HE KNOWS.

TILDEN ONE OF GREATEST OF CHAMPIONS

WILLIAM TILDEN of these United States is doing a very thorough job on European tennis courts. William, as you may recall, proved himself to be the greatest ever in the tennis racket (international) over a six-year stretch. He reached the pinnacle and brushed aside all claimants.

Then he bumped into various misfortunes. Lost part of a finger, had a flock of nervous worry when his writing ability was questioned. He was the champion of champions, but the reformers jumped him because he did things now and then that spoiled the rulings of the best-selling etiquette.

William, who isn't anybody's dumbbell, made hay where the sun and the money shone. He was exploiting a lot of things for a lot of people and was smart enough to want to be clothed in.

The United States found it was in a crucial spot, so along in a tennis way, and C. C. Pyle came along as I showed Vince Richards how to make a lot of money, with no excuses needed. He, as you may well, knew he ought save the day, if all there it was that need d to be saved.

He carried the fight right into Europe, where the greatest bunch of net stars that ever appeared in one country at one time are parked. And William is making his personal part a real success. He has the fighting spirit, attached to wonderful parts, even though the spirit of youth has vanished. When the champs of all time are listed, he can't be left out.

RIGHT AND WRONG RING STANCE

CHAMPION GENE TUNNEY SHOWING CORRECT AND INCORRECT POSITION OF LEGS WHILE BOXING

HOW TO BOX
By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of 10 illustrated articles by Gene Tunney, ... Heavyweight Champion, on "How to Box" and which are designed to teach youngsters the manly art of self-defense. The third article of this series will appear ... May 27.

NOTHING is so vital for success in boxing as the proper stance. By this I mean the learning of the proper way to stand. For if that isn't learned at the beginning, then a youngster never will get very far with boxing.

The proper boxing pose is with the left foot extended. Just how far it is to be extended from the right foot is the thing a youngster must determine for himself. Some boys are tall with long legs, and therefore can take a big "spread" of anywhere from 12 to 20 inches.

Others are short, of [illegible] legs, and if they attempted a spread of more than ten or twelve inches they would be in an awkward position, and it would be easy for an opponent to push them off balance.

Every youngster who intends to follow the boxing game should [illegible] of all extend the left foot [illegible] forward from the [illegible] position.

If you cannot keep a perfect balance, then it means you are not standing correctly. [illegible] apart you're not [illegible] ch.

It stands to reason that [illegible] opponent with your left foot [illegible] you can't [illegible] for your own [illegible] position [illegible] are too [illegible] to [illegible] which [illegible] you to [illegible]

[illegible] quarry when anyone pushes or [illegible] you.

If your brother or one of your companions is going to [illegible] this line of advice on boxing [illegible] to of you can experiment [illegible] Let him take what he [illegible] proper stance first, [illegible] is an older. If he [illegible] get off better than [illegible] legs are too far [illegible] apart.

After he has learned [illegible] then [illegible] legs, let him [illegible] do a little [illegible] punching.

[illegible] snappily [illegible] with the [illegible] Then let him [illegible] to lead. Repeat [illegible] to [illegible] Do it [illegible] be a minute or so of [illegible] and then you alternate with about [illegible] swift punches.

If both of you can take all of those jabs without losing balance, then you can be sure that you have learned the correct stance.

But I want to emphasize [illegible] that point, that while [illegible] are [illegible] and to get that [illegible] not at all difficult [illegible] If you do [illegible] you will [illegible] at all difficult [illegible]

"You Said It, Marceline!"

-:- On "A Woman's Heart" -:- By Marceline d'Alroy

A WOMAN'S HEART is like an EMPIRE. It was not BUILT in a day. Nor It can be DESTROYED in a day if He who rules It VIOLATES It.

SOME MEN say there are as MANY WAYS Of approach to a woman's HEART as There are WOMEN. The same is TRUE Of HEAVEN or, Rome.

All ROADS may lead there, but no EARTHLY MAN reaches the DESTINATION He sets out for. A woman's HEART is not Invincible. It is merely an UNKNOWN quantity.

In the FIRST PLACE a man can't be SURE A woman has one until he has TOUCHED It. And then, even after she has GIVEN it to him, He may BREAK it, or lose it. None can TELL!

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

SEVERAL cities are already holding beauty contests. They stage them every year with the hope that a prize may some time win one of them.

A NORTH DAKOTA girl has won three of these tournaments with the same face.

SHES an optimist if the picture isn't too pretty.

SHE weighs 350 pounds and is between years of age and 60. Not too fat.

THE judges decided she was a perfect 36, but they weren't very good at arithmetic.

THEY should have called in an au pulchin.

SHE had what could well be termed "pep" but they were always looking at each other.

HER rosy cheeks and red lips are her own, of course, you understand, but that's considered a natural complexion nowadays.

HER hair is [illegible] transient blond.

SHE uses a [illegible] lips.

SHE has a classic profile, but she can't eat in any language.

SHE took the first prize in the middle west, but west and couldn't have been arrested for grand larceny.

THE judges who awarded her the trophy ought to be held for contempt of court.

ANY man who awards a beautiful shield to indicted for perjury.

IF her face was her fortune, she'd have been in the hands of the receivers a long time ago.

BEAUTY is only skin deep, but she doesn't go.

WHILE there are thousands of good looking girls on view the [illegible] contests are not too [illegible].

THE MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN---BY HELEN ROWLAND

ALMOST any man will tell you that three-quarters of his life has been spent in waiting for some woman to powder her nose, or make up her mind, or meet him at the corner drug-store, or remember what a trumps.

* * *

But that "waiting-for-woman" stuff is an old and overworked alibi!

About the last chance a woman has of keeping her husband WAITING is when she loiters down the aisle from the church door to the chancel-rail.

* * *

And for that she pays with a LIFETIME of watchful waiting!

* * *

She waits for him to get through shaving before she can get something out of the medicine cabinet—and waits for him to get through reading the newspaper before she can get anything out of him conversation.

* * *

She waits for him to find his hat, kiss her good-bye and bang the front door behind him, before she can start the day with a light heart—

* * *

And she waits for him to stroll leisurely home to dinner, in his usual circuitous manner, and by the old zig-zag route, before she can start the evening.

* * *

She waits for him to finish his salad, his demitasse, his cigar, and the baseball pages before she brooks the silence and the bad news to him.

* * *

She waits for him to come out of his grouch or his coma, get into his evening clothes, and start the engine, before they can get off to a party.

She waits for him to finish playing under the car on Sunday before they can go for a drive—

And she waits for him to work out the puzzle of changing a tire by the roadside before they can go ON driving.

She waits for him to recover from a spring infatuation for some other woman—and for him to come back to her, full of disillusionment, contrition and alibis.

She waits for him to get bald, and middle-aged and sensible—

* * *

And THEN finds that she has to wait for him to get over his Indian Summer Madness before he is REALLY ready to settle down!

* * *

She waits for him to tell her what is in his mind, his heart, his bank account and his WILL—and then to wait until he is dead to find out if he told her the TRUTH!

* * *

And, after that, she has to wait a year for him to be "promoted" before she re-marries, and starts the waiting game all over again!

* * *

Ah, yes Woman's role is that of lady in waiting. Some day, maybe, she will startle nothing by just [illegible] herself, until everyone else is [illegible]

Good Old Hoi Polloi

Without Them the Sport of Kings Would Be Too Expensive

Mr. Ed Curley, writing about racing for the NEW YORK AMERICAN, says, "The race horses will make their society bow at Belmont Park, the beauties of the social elect will greet them. And at the same time the hoi polloi will be there in thousands to do reverence to the fleet blue-blooded equines."

The hoi polloi will be there, not so much "to do reverence to the blue-blooded equines," as to hand its money to the bookmakers, returning home without that money.

The social elect are the brilliant ornaments. They have inherited money, and amuse themselves racing horses. But the "hoi polloi," which means the ordinary riff raff, are also very necessary to the "sport of kings" and the "blue-blooded equines."

Those dull minded polloi that don't know enough to keep their money in their pockets and use it for themselves, pay the expenses of the socially elect, and of the "blue-blooded" horses.

They pay to get IN, and they pay to get OUT. To get in they buy a ticket, and they pay to get out by handing the rest of their money to the bookmakers.

Not one of them ever made money at the end of a season, and every one of them KNOWS that.

And yet like flies that go to the flypaper, they go back to the rack track, tens of thousands of them, or to the bookmakers, in big cities, never seeing a horse.

And they with their money support the bookmakers and the race tracks and the "socially elect" and all the rest of it.

The burnt child dreads the fire and keeps away from it.

But the bookmaker's customer doesn't even know when he is burned and blistered. He goes back for more.

Only one thing cures him, and that is HAVING NO MONEY.

P. S.—This won't do very much good, for fools are numerous and the gambling instinct is strong.

But there are thousands that give to bookmakers and the "socially elect" money they ought to give their wives to be spent for their children.

A few of them perhaps will realize that the "sucker born every minute" is usually born on his way to the bookmaker, and also THAT NOBODY EXCEPT BOOKMAKERS AND TRACK OWNERS EVER WON ANYTHING BY RACE TRACK GAMBLING.

This will annoy some of our younger, more foolish readers, also some older, hopeless fools.

But this paper is run for the benefit of its readers, particularly of the women that must take care of the children, hence this sort of editorial.

How to Become an Elk

Information for "Regular" Fellows, ONLY

The richly deserved but nevertheless almost phenomenal success of the New Elks' Hotel should make the enrollment of 3,000 new members of Boston Lodge almost as easy as breaking sticks.

In its second month the hotel cleared $3,000; for its third month the institution shows a profit of $19,000!

With a membership of 7,400, Boston Lodge is fourth in size in the United States; but there is room in this 15-story hotel and headquarters for many more.

Only ELKS are permitted to enjoy the "club" floor of the hotel, with its library, lounges, billiard and game rooms and powerful radio-receiving sets.

Only ELKS are made welcome to stag suppers and other entertainments; can bring their sons in to play billiards with them; are permitted to send their youngsters to the free Saturday afternoon movies in the Auditorium, bring their ladies to the Sunday night organ recital, or the Elks' balls, banquets and bi-weekly social functions in the ballroom.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is EXACTLY that. Its national budget for charity last year amounted to THREE MILLION DOLLARS.

Boston Lodge has NEVER turned its back upon a worthy cause.

Not every fellow has it in him to be a GOOD Elk.

There must, however, be at least 3,000 more eligibles in this big city, likely chaps who ought not to be walking or driving past the magnificent new building in Tremont Street and feeling themselves to be outside it all, and the purpose of these few words is to tell the fellow who SHOULD be an Elk how he CAN be an Elk.

The "drive" for members will end on Friday.

Cats and Dogs

DON'T Leave Them to Die of Starvation

It seems almost incredible but in a single month last Summer the Animal Rescue League took from the streets, or from owners who desired to be rid of them, 7,634 cats and 1,060 dogs.

The League BEGS families who are going away for a vacation to notify the organization before closing their houses, IF they are leaving cats behind them.

"The cat that is left to the uncertain care of neighbors, or the milkman, is far more likely to become a homeless wanderer, its own life a misery, and also a trouble, sometimes a danger, to human beings."

In this common and cruel desertion of cats, according to the annual report of the League, women are far more responsible than men.

We have been familiar for a number of years with the complaint that city folk leave their tabbies behind them at the beach, but this is the first time our attention has been called to the fact that there is similar trouble—and so much MORE of it—at this end.

Don't desert your Thomas or Maria! Telephone to the Animal Rescue League, and if a home cannot be found for your former "pet" let it be put out of misery.

WORK A BLESSING, SAYS MR. HOLMES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

In an interview with Justice Holmes of Boston and the United States Supreme Court the other day, attention was called to the principle which he adopts for staying young.

This principle is nothing but work.

Work for all is the very best medicine for all the ills to which flesh is heir.

The beauty of work is that it takes one out of one's self. Whatever can divert one's attention from one's self and direct it toward other people or toward nature is a benefit to the human organism.

Man's body and mind are so complexly composed that they defy human management. Their well being is much better cared for by nature and by instinct. The best care for most kinds of diseases of body and mind is to let them alone and direct one's energies somewhere else.

Justice Holmes, who is a son of our famous Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, is about eighty-six years of age and going strong. He hardly ever misses a day in court and his life is occupied by regular routine.

He says if he should give up his work he would die.

Many men have found this to be true and many deaths are traceable to the fact that men in their old age have given up their occupations and devoted themselves to idleness.

Justice Holmes loves his work. It absorbs and interests him.

The diseases common to humanity fall helpless against his armor of work.

Work is a blessing and if work be the primal curse placed upon the human race by the Almighty, then God's curse is the best of man's blessings, for one who is always busily employed has the best guarantee of long life.

Better than gland treatment or the operations of beauty specialists or any other kind of attempt to preserve one's self is to find congenial work in which one may expend his energies.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE heights of Heaven are very far away, its turrets and its battlements are far beyond the utmost limits of the day, beyond the purple dusk's remotest star. Though many a wearied toiler dreams of peace, and many a longing struggler looks that way, not always can the wayworn gain release to tread the happy road for which they pray. But, though the heights of Heaven are very far beyond the dawn, beyond the twilight clear, beyond the glory of the utmost star . . . the low, white doors of home are very near! The low, white doors that keep all joys inside and staunchly bar away all grief and dole; then who would sigh for Heaven, unsatisfied, when home may be a Heaven to the soul?

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

MUSIC.

MELROSE is soon to start a campaign to raise funds for the holding of organ concerts for the public in Memorial Hall. When the mammoth memorial organ was installed by the late JOHN C. F. SLAYTON he also supplied funds for the frequent holding of free organ recitals by noted organists. These were usually held on Sunday afternoons and always drew record audiences. With the death of Mr. Slayton no funds were available. Next Fall, however, it is expected that citizens will establish a fund which will provide for a resumption of the concerts during the Winter season.

COTTAGE

If the old MISSISSIPPI RIVER doesn't do another contortion and bend in the general direction of a certain little lake at Cornish, Me., CAPTAIN GEORGE W. PATTERSON, thirty-four years connected with the Boston Police Department, is liable to find himself in possession of a self-constructed Summer cottage. GEORGE fell heir to a Cornish lot about three years ago and has been trying to erect a cottage there. He begins his vacation next week and plans to nail the fourth and last wall onto the place.

INTERESTED

The keen interest displayed by HON. SANFORD BATES, State Commissioner of Correction, in the Boy and Girl Scout movement is evidence of his confidence in the value of activities of this nature as deterrents of juvenile delinquency. COMMISSIONER BATES is constantly in demand as a speaker at Boy and Girl Scout functions in his home city, NEWTON, and is always one of the first to volunteer his services when the scout organizations in Newton are in need of aid.

SIDE LINE

CHIEF DEPUTY SHERIFF and COURT OFFICER FREDERICK T. PEABODY of Middlesex County has a "side line" that keeps him occupied in the Summer months when the courts over which he has charge are closed. Fred assumes the role of a mariner bold, devoting his time to the successful operation of the "Dorothy Bradford," excursion boat that plies between Boston and Provincetown, which he owns.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IN Mr. Wells' new book, "The World of William Clissold," there is a quiet house in a tangled garden. And in that garden, a singing thread of water trickles from a stone cup beneath a Greek inscription which translated, means "EVERYTHING FLOWS."

EVERYTHING FLOWS—that is the motif which runs through Mr. Wells' vast and moving picture of our world today.

EVERYTHING FLOWS—that is the motif which runs through all life—through your life and mine and the lives of all those who have gone before us and shall come after us.

EVERYTHING FLOWS—nothing stays nor can be made to stay in our grasp—everything must pass and give place to something else. That's the Truth, but how we hate to acknowledge it. And how terribly we suffer because we won't acknowledge it.

Happiness—we want to hold onto it. But one can no more hold on to happiness than one can hold on to a sunbeam. For a moment it flickers above the swift current of life and then is gone. And because it has gone we cry that life's a failure. But life isn't a failure. It isn't in the least necessary that happiness should be permanent. Indeed it would be a great misfortune if happiness were permanent. Growing things need wind and rain as much as they need sunbeams. We need the stress and storm of life as much as we need joy. But we have never learned to look at things in that larger way. We are greedy children who want to hold joy tight in our hot, foolish little hands and who scream when it slips away.

Love—love flows too, out of our grasp, though we try so passionately to retain it. Of all our cruel futile struggles none are more cruel or futile than the struggles to hold love and retain our grip upon loved ones. They grow up, they are claimed by their destinies, or they die and we are left, bitter and alone because we tried to do the impossible.

The homes that have been ruined and the hearts that have been broken because we tried to hold and rule love!

Everything flows—wisdom flows—that which was wise yesterday is ruled out today. The wisdom you carefully collected at twenty, thinking it would last your life, is useless at forty. Unless you have renewed it, you are out of step with your time as a man who would plow earth with a forked stick.

Everything passes—customs pass—the framework in which we have comfortably settled our lives is swept away, and how we rebel. We look back wistfully at the days of our youth and sigh for "the good old times." We survey the new order and sneer and make gloomy predictions. How silly and pitiful. How can life possibly stay the same and of what use would it be if it could? If the "good old times" had persisted we'd still be wearing beaskin pants and eating our neighbors raw.

Standards and ideals pass—that which was right yesterday is inexpedient today and will be considered wrong tomorrow. Goodness itself is a fluid thing, adapting itself to changing seasons and growth. No one generation can decide what is good for another generation. I cannot decide what is good for you—nor can you decide what is good for me, but how we like to try.

Everything flows, and if you would find any peace or strength you must flow with it. Everything changes and you too must change. Everything passes and you must pass with it, or pass. It is useless to rebel. You might as well try to rebel against the ebb and flow of the tides or the slow circling of the stars. Do not try to rebel. Do not set your heart on holding onto happiness or power or love. Give yourself up to the current. Then suddenly, in place of the small trickle of life which you tried to clench in your hands, you will feel and be part of the whole onrushing river.
